Sodome et Gomorrhe by Alessandro Bavari – an italian artist at Galerie D

Montreal, 2006 – From June 14 to August 5, under the theme FRACTIONS, the Festival is proud to present for the first time a foreign artist. A few works from the series SODOME ET GOMORRHE by the Italian artist Alessandro Bavari will be shown at the Galerie D. This exposition is made possible by collaboration with the galerie Urbain Jungle Art de Paris.

Born in Italy in 1963, Alessandro Bavari showed a talent for photomontages since the age of 15. He has studied scenography, photography and art history at the Academy of Arts of Rome, while developing techniques in oil painting, water colors and engraving thanks to experimenting with materials such as tar, glue, plants, bones and fossils. Bavari photographs everything he sees: subjects, architecture, images and landscapes, humans and animals. Influenced by myths and allegories of indo-european culture, his photographs evoke paintings by Jerome Bosch and renaissance artists. Since 1993, he has integrated the photographic process with digital techniques to reveal a new dimension to his work. He photographs organic and industrial objects that he manipulates using graphics software to create his photomontages. His creative process has the effect of blurring the frontiers between the various art forms that distinguish them.

Alessandro Bavari lives and works in Italy. His works are shown around the world: in the U.S., Finland, Japan and Australia and a number of prizes and honors have been bestowed on Mr. Bavari for his work in digital art. He is considered to be the father of a new generation of artists.
